Advanced Degree Tuition Benefit Policy

The College recognizes the importance of continuing education for members of the faculty, administration and professional staff. The College also recognizes that the benefits of an advanced degree tuition reimbursement program will not only benefit the employees but also the institution. With this in mind, the College has worked to develop a plan that will be fair and equitable to all employees. The plan is intended to provide sufficient benefit to help attract high quality new employees. Finally, the plan is designed to balance these needs within the financial and budget considerations of the College.

Overall Eligibility

In order to be eligible for the advanced degree tuition reimbursement program, the following minimum requirements must be met:

- The employee must be a full-time member of the King’s College faculty, administration or professional staff or a Graduate Assistant or Athletic Intern. (Advance degree benefits are not available to dependent children or spouses of employees.)

- The advanced degree that reimbursement is being requested for MUST be directly related to the employee’s current job responsibilities and professional development goals and be approved by the employee’s supervisor or department/program chair, the employee’s Vice President as well as the Human Resources Department. All parties must approve the advanced degree program as it relates to the employee’s current job responsibilities before entry into the advanced degree reimbursement program will be allowed.

- The employee must meet the academic and application requirements as a candidate for the advanced degree of the institution that reimbursement is being requested for.

- The employee may not take courses at a different institution that are available already at King’s. First choice should always be given to King’s College courses.

- This program applies to only post baccalaureate programs of study.

- Programs of study must be taken at an accredited college or university.

- Proof of satisfactory course completion and tuition receipts must be submitted prior to reimbursement.

The employee is exclusively responsible for initiating, submitting, and obtaining approval for advanced degree tuition reimbursement on the required forms in the required time periods prior to beginning school work for each session.
Explanation of Benefits

The Advanced Degree Tuition Reimbursement plan is a two tiered plan as described below.

Tier 1 - Courses taken at King’s College

The College provides graduate educational benefits to its academically qualified full-time employees, Graduate Interns and Athletic Interns who meet the guidelines of the College.

Conditions:

- This benefit is for tuition only. Fees, books, independent study cost, room, board, tutorial costs, independent study costs and other charges are the responsibility of the employee.
- Employees taking courses need to receive permission from their supervisor concerning the number of classes taken, and the supervisor must indicate approval by signing the supervisor authorization portion of the Tuition Remission Application. Special attention should be first given to the department's workload.
- Normally, classes should be taken outside of the employee’s regular work schedule. Any work related to the classes (e.g. studying, researching, reading) must not take place during regular working hours.
- Employees receiving tuition remission for a course will not count when determining whether registration in any course is sufficient to offer the course.
- No graduate benefits are available to dependent children or spouses.
- Termination of employment or change of status to a position not eligible for this benefit will immediately terminate tuition benefits. Student enrollment continued after a termination or change in status occurs during a semester will require payment of the pro-rated tuition balance.

Application:

Eligible participants must complete and submit a Tuition Remission Application form on the Human Resources website each semester.

Tier 2 - Classes taken at other institutions.
Employee receives the benefit equal to the lesser of (a) the appropriate percentage of the host college’s tuition OR (b) the appropriate percentage of King’s College's advanced degree tuition:

For example: Assuming King’s College’s advanced degree tuition rate is $1,875.00 per 3-credit course and the host institution’s tuition rate is $1,900.00 per 3-credit course and an employee with five or more years of service at King’s taking one course at the host institution will be reimbursed 74% of the lesser amount (which is the King’s College tuition rate of $1,875.00) for a reimbursement of $1387.50 for that course.

Limits

The following limits apply to the advanced degree tuition reimbursement program:

- All reimbursement percentages are based on the unpaid balance after all available scholarship, financial aid, and grant monies are deducted. The general policy of the College regarding scholarships, financial aid, and grants shall apply; state monies and other resources must be explored and utilized with the College supplementing the award to the extent of its financial commitment.

- Yearly maximum $5,250.00 per employee (Based on a Jan 1- Dec 31). This rate is geared toward the IRS limits on Education Assistance Programs (Code Section 127) to provide employees with the maximum tax benefits.

- Lifetime Maximum $15,717.60 per non-faculty employee. (This is based on 70% of the typical cost of three years of tuition at the King’s College advanced degree tuition rate— currently $1,875 per 3-credit course.) The Lifetime Maximum benefit for faculty will be determined on a case-by-case basis by the Office of Academic Affairs.
Total number of employees participating in the advanced degree tuition reimbursement program may be limited by the availability of professional development funds budgeted for a given fiscal year.

Reimbursement monies will be in the form of a loan to each employee paid each session for the amount of that session (up to the yearly and lifetime maximums listed above). At the completion of the degree program, the College will forgive 20% of the total loan each year over a period of five years. This is done to ensure a reasonable retention rate of employees seeking their advanced degree via the advanced degree tuition reimbursement funding. If the employee leaves active employment with King’s College, this loan forgiveness ends immediately, and the employee will be responsible for repayment of the balance of the loan at the terms agreed to in the Business Office promissory note.

Demonstrated progress toward the completion of the advanced degree must be shown. In cases where continual degree progress is not shown and/or the employee decides to take a year off for non-medical reasons, loan repayment will begin immediately.

The advanced degree must be completed by employees within a five-year period from the beginning date in order to receive loan forgiveness. For Faculty the advanced degree must be completed within a seven-year period from the beginning date in order to receive loan forgiveness. For doctoral programs this limit is extended to 7-10 years depending on the degree program. This limit will be determined on a case-by-case basis at the time the promissory note is signed.

Educational benefits in all cases pertain to tuition assistance and are exclusive of all fees. Tutorial costs, independent study costs, and off campus programs are not covered by these educational benefits.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania views educational assistance payments as taxable compensation to the employee and subject to withholding. Employees are responsible for all tax payments required under federal, state, and local law. (Future investigation and development at King’s College of Code Section 127 tax laws may make this benefit non-taxable.)

All educational benefits are provided during the period of active employment by the College and cease when the employee is no longer employed whether or not the advanced degree or the full amount of the loan forgiveness has been completed over the five years for non faculty employees or seven years for faculty. In this case the employee will be held responsible for repayment of the balance of the loan at the terms agreed to in the Business Office promissory note. In cases of a person's retirement or departure due to poor health, determinations will be made on a case-by-case basis.

- Benefits determinations based on change of employment status at the College will be made on a case-by-case basis.

- Normally classes are to be taken outside of the employee's regular work schedule. Special attention should be given to the department's workload first. Any work related to the classes (e.g. studying, researching, reading) must not take place during regular working hours.

- While completion of a program provides for improved educational background, the accomplishment does not obligate King’s College to reward such completion through promotion, transfer, reassignment, or salary increases.

Application Procedures

Applications for benefits of the Advanced Degree Tuition Reimbursement Program must be submitted to the Human Resources Department each semester. Payment of benefits is authorized and coordinated by the Human Resources Department in conjunction with the Business Office. Specific procedures for claiming the educational assistance benefit are set by the Human Resources Department. In general, these procedures will adhere to the following guidelines:

- The employee must complete all required paperwork with the appropriate signatures from the Human Resources Department as well as the employee’s supervisor or department/program chair prior to the application deadline dates (April 1st for summer session, June 1st for fall session, and October 1st for spring session). A copy of the advanced degree program outline should also accompany the required paperwork. The employee is also responsible for the submission of all appropriate paperwork required at the end of each session to show course completion and tuition charges.

- Serious consideration will be given to those employees with Professional Development goals in their yearly performance appraisal that relate directly to the advanced degree that reimbursement is being requested for.

- Serious consideration will be based on an employee's overall performance, potential for advancement, and long-term commitment to King’s College’s mission.
• Serious consideration will be given to employees already on a degree path as part of the advanced degree tuition reimbursement program from a prior year.

• Serious consideration will be given to employees with more years of service; however, because of the lower reimbursement rates for employees with fewer years of service, more new employees can be accommodated within a budget limitation as long as care is given to monitor the long-term consequences of this action in the budget.

• Serious consideration will be given to employees that have not already completed an advanced degree via the program.

• Serious consideration will be given to employees who are not already receiving benefits under the College’s Undergraduate Tuition Reimbursement Program for a dependent child or spouse.

Application Forms

The application forms for this benefit can be obtained by contacting the Human Resources Department. The form used for the application for advanced degree tuition reimbursement very closely matches the forms used for undergraduate/graduate tuition reimbursement for King’s College. Additional forms will be required by the Business Office to initiate and track the five or seven year loan forgiveness program as well as to initiate payment after successful course completion.
