King’s honor employees for 20-years service

The King’s Community recently celebrated Patron’s Day, the Vigil of the Feast of Christ the King. On this day, the College traditionally honors employees for their years of service to King’s.

Over 50 honorees along with their families and guests filled the Chapel of Christ the King for a celebratory Mass. A luncheon followed in the Sheehy-Farmer Campus Center, where employees with employment anniversaries spanning from 10 to 40 years were also honored.

Four employees honored for 20-years service are, seated from left: Barbara Zirnhelt, dining services, and James Wallace, professor of English. Standing: Nicholas Holodick, VP for academic affairs; and Rev. Thomas O’Hara, C.S.C., president, with Dr. Lisa Marie McCauley, VP for business affairs and treasurer.

OVS plans Winter SERVE

The Office of Volunteer Services will send approximately two dozen King’s students and staff members on Winter SERVE (Students Engaged in Reflective Volunteer Experiences) trips. The volunteer initiatives will take place in early January in Phoenix, Arizona, and Laredo, Texas.

The Phoenix trip, coordinated by seniors Jess Cable and Nadya Alboschy, will involve students volunteering at the Andre House, an organization founded by Holy Cross priests and brothers to combat homelessness and poverty.

The Laredo excursion is a volunteer opportunity that will immerse students in contemporary issues, such as immigration and border control. They will begin the day with morning informational sessions, followed by various service projects in the area, including cleaning up a section of the Rio Grande River. Junior Kathleen Dorsey and senior Susan Prentice are coordinating the service trip.

Each volunteer opportunities will involve 10 students accompanied by staff members that include: Leanne Mazurick, director of volunteer services; Bro. George Schmitz, director of community outreach and member of the education department; Ave Moran, community outreach coordinator; and, Kurt Zampier, residence life hall director.

SERVE initiatives offer learning experiences for both staff and students. OVS staff coordinate most assignments, but, when the need arises, volunteer services will offer other faculty and staff an opportunity to volunteer their time.

For further information or to learn how to get involved in future trips, contact Leanne Mazurick at ext. 5810 or e-mail leannemazurick@kings.edu.
