Farber Memorial Golf Tournament raises $40,000

King's College recently held its annual Rev. Paul Farber, C.S.C., Memorial Golf Tournament at Mill Race Golf and Camping Resort in Benton. An all-time record of 140 alumni and friends participated in the tournament, which is celebrating its 21st year. Co-chairpersons, Kathleen Daskalakes and Bill Runner, and the Century Club Golf Committee announced that the event raised just over $40,000 for the Farber Scholarship Fund, which benefits students with financial needs.

On behalf of Sodexo Campus Services, Peter Stark, general manager of dining services for Sodexo, presented a check for $20,000 to King's College. Of the total, $10,000 goes to the Rev. Paul Farber Scholarship Fund and $10,000 will go to the Annual Fund Community Campaign.

This year's tournament championship went to Dr. Charles Blewitt's team. The event featured a captain and crew format, and the day concluded with cocktails, dinner and an awards ceremony.

King's again among U.S. News' Best Colleges

The 19th annual "America's Best Colleges" issue of U.S. News & World Report again ranks King's College in the top level of the "Best Universities-Masters" in the North for the fifth consecutive year and the 12th consecutive year that King's is ranked among America's best institutions for academic quality by U.S. News & World Report. In the top tier of 572 colleges nationwide that grant master's degrees but have few doctoral programs, King's is No. 33 in the North and is included with larger institutions such as Villanova University, Fairfield University, and Providence College.

The fact that King's has been designated among the Best Colleges by U.S. News & World Report every year for over a decade indicates a strong unbroken commitment on the part of King's College in providing a quality education to its students.

King's ranking among the "Best Universities-Masters" institutions is equally impressive since King's is an undergraduate college and had, until 1999, been ranked among the best schools in that category.

In 2000 the increase in the number of master's degrees that King's awards through some of its programs, such as the physician assistant program, moved King's into the U.S. News Master's category rankings.

The complete edition of the 2006 U.S. News & World's Report's "America's Best Colleges" is online at www.USNews.com and available on newsstands.

Leggin' it with Leo for better health

Over 221 faculty, staff, and administration are "Leggin' it with Leo." Designed to increase physical activity through walking, "Leggin' it with Leo" is a 12-week health and wellness program at King's in cooperation with Steps to a HealthierPA-Luzerne County. The program began with a kickoff rally on July 11 and continues through Sept. 30.

Administered by the Human Resources Office, program participants were given a pedometer to track their weekly progress, a water bottle, and walker's starter pack, including coupons from the College and local businesses. And throughout the program, there are weekly drawings for such prizes as hooded sweatshirts, gift certificates to local restaurants, Red Barons tickets, movie tickets, and many other great prizes. Also, all participants who have completed the program will be entered into the grand prize drawing.

Steps to a HealthierPA-Luzerne County is part of a national health promotion and disease prevention initiative named Steps to a HealthierUS to help Americans live healthier, longer and better lives by reducing the burden of diabetes, overweight, obesity and asthma by addressing three related risk factors of physical inactivity, poor nutrition and tobacco use and exposure.
