Rev. Daniel Bell examines ethics in the developing world

The Rev. Daniel M. Bell, Jr., Ph.D., associate professor of Theological Ethics at Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary in Columbia, S.C., is considered an expert in theology and economics, especially in the context of the developing world.

As this year's Ethics Center lecturer at King's College, Dr. Bell will present two talks at King's on Tuesday, March 14.

At 11 a.m. he will discuss, "Capitalist Theology and Christian Economics." In his lecture at 3:30 p.m., Dr. Bell focuses on "The Terror of Savage Capital and the Faith of the Crucified: Latin American Liberationists on the Global Economic Order." Both addresses are free and open to the public in the Burke Auditorium.

The lectures are sponsored by King's College Center for Ethics and Public Life.

Dr. Bell's articles have been published in various journals including Modern Theology, Journal for Peace and Justice Studies, and Pro Ecclesia. He has presented papers before distinguished organizations such as the Latin American Studies Association International Congress, the American Academy of Religion, and the Irish School of Ecumenics.

His book, "Liberation Theology After the End of History", is based on his dissertation, "The Refusal to Cease Suffering: the Crucified People and the Liberation of Desire."

Daniel M. Bell, Jr. is an ordained elder in The United Methodist Church. A graduate of Stetson University in Florida, he earned the Master of Divinity degree from Duke Divinity School and the Doctor of Philosophy degree in theology and ethics from Duke University where he taught courses at the divinity school.

The Northeast Pennsylvania Athletic Training 5K Run/1 Mile Walk will benefit the Northeastern Pennsylvania Athletic Training Scholarship fund, and the race's real winner will be the athletic training education student from northeast Pennsylvania to win a scholarship. Those eligible for the award include students from King's College, East Stroudsburg University, Marywood University, and Alvernia College.

An awards ceremony and presentation by Athletic Training students from each of the four schools covering "Supplements: Advantages and Disadvantages for the Athlete," will follow the race at 1 p.m. in Kirby Park. In case of inclement weather, the program will be moved to the Burke Auditorium.

King's sports medicine is seeking runners, walkers, sponsors or donations for the race. For more information, contact Melissa Stavinski, assistant clinical professor of Athletic Training, at ext. 5459 or Amy Zawadzki at ext. 5650 or amzawadz@kings.edu.

King's pins hopes on Kids' Bowlathon

King's College will again support the local Big Brothers and Big Sisters program in this year's Bowlathon. Last year, the King's community provided more than 100 bowlers to raise over $2,880 to support Bowl for Kids' Sake.

This year, King's is accepting donations, seeking bowlers to take pledges, or student clubs or groups to sponsor lanes for the 2006 Bowl for Kids' Sake Bowlathon on Saturday, March 25, at Stanton Lanes in Wilkes-Barre. King's raised more money for this event the past two years than any other area college, and hopes to continue this impressive tradition of caring this year.

Reserve your sponsorship by March 17. There are three types of sponsorship available: $125 Sponsor-A-Lane offers your group's name on a 2x2 1/2' sign above a single bowling lane the day of the event; $250 Group of Lanes Sponsor provides a group's name or logo on a 6x2 1/2' sign above a group of bowling lanes the day of the event; $500 Ultra Lane Sponsor gives for the name or logo on a 6x2 1/2' banner above a group of bowling lanes and mention in newspaper ads.

Checks payable to Big Brothers Big Sisters or cash donations can be sent to Chris Bedwick, director of the Center for Experiential Learning. If you would like to bowl with King's or for more information contact Chris Bedwick at ext. 5913.
